Teamwork: The Expert Model

Few things can help an individual more than to place responsibility on him, and to let him know that you trust him.

-Booker T. Washington

- What perspective does the expert have that others don't?
- How can better ideas be welcomed instead of resisted?
- Why do certain groups flounder while others thrive?
- How do high-performing organizations overcome inertia and unlock the potential that they have?

Teamwork: The Expert Model is a workshop designed to deal with multiple challenges many organizations face as corporate cultures develop and change. Delivered in a sensible, engaging format that is easily understood, the psychology of individual and organizational behaviours is examined in a way that participants enjoy relating to.

Teamwork: The Expert Model replaces a negative culture with one of trust, honesty and mutual respect. The workshop breaks down silos between departments and individuals by providing a unique modern approach to introducing benefits of social interaction, leadership, and recognizing what we like about our team members. Team members may then focus on the dynamics that drive performance instead of politics.

High-performing organizations recognize that these values are the reason for their success, not simply 'a nice concept...if there's time'.
